SOIL

Shallow clay soils of marine origin, force the vines to struggle and limit the crop size. This stress drives higher quality and greater concentration.

MARINE INFLUENCE

As temperatures east of Napa Valley rise in the afternoon, a vacuum is created, pulling cold air from the Bay and buffeting our vineyard with salty, cold breezes, maintaining our natural 'air conditioning'.

FOG

Fog pushes its way from the ocean and up the Napa River each night, blanketing our estate vineyard. With close proximity to San Pablo Bay, we are the first and last area covered by fog from early to late morning.
